This is not a joint report with any other entity.

SCI Brockville Corp., doing business as Sanmina, is also subject to reporting requirements under the UK Modern Slavery Act 2015 and California's Supply Chain Act. Sanmina has implemented a Slavery and Human Trafficking policy that outlines the following:

California Senate Bill 657 requires retailers and manufacturers which do business in California and have annual worldwide gross receipts over $100 million to describe on their websites the extent to which they:

- Verify their product supply chains to evaluate and address risks of human trafficking and slave labor.

SANMINA

- Conduct audits to ensure their suppliers adhere to company standards, require their direct suppliers to certify that materials used to make their products are from countries that do not engage in slavery and human trafficking.
- Maintain internal accountability standards for employees or contractors that fall short of company requirements.
- Ensure that employees who are responsible for supply side management receive training on human trafficking and slavery, with a focus on the risks within supply chains.

SANMINA

Sanmina has a zero tolerance approach towards any form of slavery, servitude, forced or bonded labor, or human trafficking. In this regard, Sanmina has adopted the Responsible Business Alliance (“RBA”) Code of Conduct (the “Code”). The Code provides that adopters must not use forced, bonded, indentured or prison labor, that work shall be voluntary and that workers shall be free to leave their employment. This policy precludes the use of unlawful child labor in accordance with the RBA and international standards. All of Sanmina’s plants adhere to this provision of the Code and Sanmina has notified all of its suppliers of its expectation that they adhere to the Code.

The Responsible Business Alliance (“RBA”) Code of Conduct (the “Code”) can be found on the RBA website:

https://www.responsiblebusiness.org/media/docs/RBACodeofConduct8.0_English.pdf

In addition, Major Suppliers (as defined by the RBA) must complete a questionnaire by which they confirm whether they, too, have adopted the Code or participate in an equivalent social code in the countries in which they operate. This information is used to help Sanmina decide whether to select a supplier (other factors include cost, alignment of operations with our own, customer requirements, quality, shipping time and warranty). We conduct our supplier reviews internally and not through a third party or independent, unannounced audit. If a supplier fails to live up to our standards, including those contained in the Code with respect to labor rights and conditions, we may terminate our engagement with them and replace them with a supplier which does.

Sanmina has not identified any forced labor or child labor in our activities and supply chains. Any risks have been identified to the best of our knowledge and we will continue to strive to identify emerging risks.

Sanmina conducts a regular review and/or audit of the organization’s policies and procedures to assess its effectiveness in ensuring that forced labour and child labour are not being used in its activities and supply chains.
